FRANK DALEY HELD ON INCENDIARY CHARGE

ELECTRIC LINE HAS TROUBLE

One Car Splits a Switch—
Another Goes on the Ground by Spreading of Rails.

The action of the electric street cars kept the relief crew of the Portsmouth Electric Street Railway busy for awhile on Thursday afternoon and this morning. The 5 p. m. car on the Platus loop on Thursday went on the ground near the Greenough residence by the spreading of rails. This morning the 7:45 car from Middle street split the switch at the corner of Miller Avenue and Middle street and caused the trucks of the car to shoot off in opposite directions. Neither accident caused any great delay in the service.

Portsmouth's first auto show is making a hit with the public and many have expressed amazement at the fine display of cars.

AUTOMOBILE SHOW March 5, 6, 7

At Portsmouth Motor Mart Garage,
Fleet Street

THE PUBLIC ARE CORDIALLY INVITED.

STATE ELKS TO MEET AT CONCORD

Preliminary Arrangements Made Last Night for Gathering in April.

All Elks lodges in the state with two exceptions were represented at a meeting of the executive committee held in Manchester last night to make arrangements for the state meeting of the New Hampshire Federation of Elks to be held in Concord early in April. Berlin and Keene lodges failed to send representatives.

Last year's state meeting was held in Manchester and proved a pronounced success but the members of the organization are looking to even a more successful event at Concord this spring. Edward Louie of New York Lodge No. 1 and other Grand Lodge officers will be present at the session in the capital city. The banquet will be in charge of the Concord judge.

The following delegates attended last evening's meeting here: G. D. Spaniard, Nashua; A. J. McLean, Nashua; J. D. Hallsey, Nashua; Julius Salinger, Dover; P. Cassidy, Dover; E. L. Chaney, Portsmouth; A. O. Paswell, Portsmouth; F. A. Sullivan, Manchester; W. B. McKay, Manchester; W. A. Doherty, Manchester; Charles Beane, Franklin; W. E. Kliney, Claremont.

The success of the afternoon caused the lads to decide on another break Wednesday night and again they were successful. Entrance was gained as it had been during the afternoon, through the kitchen, but this time they made the dining room the object of their visit. A feast was decided upon, and breaking open a refrigerator, devoured a cooked chicken. The pair sat down at a table and enjoyed their midnight meal as much as if they had been the guests of the management.

Breaking into the hotel and getting away with things appeared very easy to the former bell-hops and a third visit was made Thursday afternoon, this one resulting in their capture.

The old reliable kitchen door again allowed their entrance, and having learned of the contents of the wine and dining rooms, they decided to try their luck in the store room.

A continued search failed to reveal anything that appealed to them, and according to the police, Daley stashed some waste matter in a corner and applied a match to it. The pair then beat a hasty retreat.

Employees of the hotel smelled the smoke and quickly located the blaze, which had begun to gain a foothold in the inner door of the safe was locked and it being of wood, was smashed into bits. A box in which were the valuables, was punctured with holes in order to break open the lock.

In the box besides the gold pieces, was Mr. Jeffre's will, the deed of his building, a life insurance policy and a bank book. The life insurance policy was not taken.

Andrew S. Levine, who lives near, heard a noise about three o'clock but suspected it was the horses in the stable.

A search is being made in the vicinity for the papers which probably were cast off when it was discovered anyone but Mr. Jeffre.

It was voted to start a dressmaking and millinery class.

The business meeting was followed by a social hour. Miss Bertha Glavin gave pianolongues and Miss Jessie Woods rendered pretty vocal solos.

Refreshments of sherbet and cakes were served. Mrs. Roberts and Miss Eva Beaufort acting as hostesses.

BURGLARS ENTER EXETER LAUNDRY

Ransack Desks and Make Away With Valuable Papers and Coin.

Burglars entered the Star Steam laundry, owned by Joe Jette, on Oxford street, Exeter, yesterday morning, but did not take away much of value, except some personal papers of Mr. Jette's.

From the safe was stolen two $5 gold pieces and a $2.50 gold piece, several coins and a gold watch which was the property of Miss Lora Walbridge, one of the employees. Several drawers in the desk were ransacked, but a roll of cloth and many other odd odds were overlooked.

It is thought to be the work of amateurs from appearance of the interior. The safe was not locked nor were some of the windows. It is thought that the burglars entered by one of the back windows, yet when Mr. Jette came to open the building this morning he found the back door open. The lock was not broken.

The inner door of the safe was locked and it being of wood, was smashed into bits. A box in which were the valuables, was punctured with holes in order to break open the lock.

In the box besides the gold pieces, was Mr. Jette's will, the deed of his building, a life insurance policy and a bank book. The life insurance policy was not taken.

AN APPEAL TO SUSTAIN THE NATIONAL HONOR

President Wilson Reads Message on Repeal of Canal Tolls--Declares It the Only Honest Course.

Washington, March 5. President Wilson personally appealed to Congress, assembled in joint session today, to sustain the National honor of the United States in upholding treaty obligations by repealing the Panama Canal tolls exemption, against which Great Britain protests. He asked Congress to do that, "in support of the foreign policy of the Administration," and added that an exemption for American ships not only was a mistake in policy, but was in contravention of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

Long before the hour set for the President's sixth personal address to the legislative branch of the Government, the Capitol corridors were crowded with men and women favored with tickets to the galleries. Extra police were stationed about the building to prevent over-crowding.

The Interstate Commerce Committee expects to report a bill for repeal within a few days.

President Wilson's address, the shortest he has yet delivered to Congress—exactly 429 words—was as follows:

His "Personal Responsibility."

"Gentlemen of the Congress: I have come to you on an errand which can be very briefly performed, but I beg that you will not measure its importance by the number of sentences in which I state it. No communication I have addressed to the Congress carried with it graver or more far-reaching implications to the interest of the country, and I come now to speak upon a matter in regard to which I am charged, to a peculiar degree, by the Constitution itself, with personal responsibility.

"I have come to ask for the repeal of that provision of the Panama Canal act of Aug. 24, 1912, which exempts vessels engaged in the eastward trade of the United States from payment of tolls, and to urge upon you the justice, the wisdom and the large policy of such a repeal with the utmost earnestness of which I am capable.

"Contravention of Treaty."

"In my own judgment, very fully considered and maturely formed, that exemption constitutes a mistaken economic policy from every point of view, and is, moreover, in plain contravention of the treaty with Great Britain concerning the Canal concluded on Nov. 18, 1904. But I have not come to you to urge my personal views. I have come to state to you a fact and a situation.

"Whatever may be our own differences of opinion concerning this much-debated measure, its meaning is not debated outside the United States. Everywhere else the language of the treaty is given but one interpretation and that interpretation precludes the exemption I am asking you to repeal. We consented to the treaty. Its language we accepted, if we did not originate it; and we are too big, too powerful, too self-respecting a Nation to interpret with too strained or refined a reading of words of our own promises, just because we have power enough to give us leave to read them as we please.

"The Large Thing to Do."

"The large thing to do is the only thing we can afford to do, a voluntary withdrawal from a position everywhere questioned, and misunderstood. We ought to reverse our action without raising the question whether we were right or wrong, and so once more deserve our reputation for generosity and the redemption of every obligation without quibble or hesitation.

"I ask this of you in support of the foreign policy of the Administration. I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure."

In Dispute Nearly Two Years.

The Panama tolls question has been a subject of dispute for nearly two years. Diplomatic correspondence between Great Britain and the United States found the question unsettled when President Taft left office. Except for an assurance to James Bryce, then British Ambassador, when he left the United States a year ago, that the question would be taken up in the regular session of Congress, President Wilson has never directed any official communication to England on the toll question.

The President recently told callers he had never discussed the matter formally or informally with the British Ambassador here, Sir Cecil Sterling-Sterling, because he believed the obligation on the part of the United States to repeal the exemption clause was one which Old Government itself should realize without outside influence or pressure.

Administration leaders in both House and Senate have assured the President that with the delivery of a message by him showing that national circumstances had arisen since the measure was last debated, the President's suggestion for repeal would be met with prompt action.

No British Official Present.

The House Chamber and galleries were packed, as usual, to hear the President read his address. The French and German Ambassadors and other members of the diplomatic corps were in spaces reserved for them. No official of the British Embassy was present.

The Misses Wilson had places in the Executive gallery. Mrs. Wilson, for the first time, was absent. She has not yet recovered from the shock of a fall in the White House a day or two ago.

President Wilson reached the Capitol 10 minutes before the time for the reading, and waited in Speaker Clark's room until 10:30 p.m. when he was escorted into the chamber, and began reading his brief address as soon as a burst of applause had died away.

Mr. Wilson's message was so brief that he had finished reading almost before the surprised galleries realized he had begun. It took less than five minutes, and as another burst of applause greeted his close, Mr. Wilson hurried out of the chamber, and drove back to the White House. The joint session dissolved at once, and the two Houses resumed their work.

Pleasing to Chairman Adams.

Not a sound had interrupted the President as he read his message. Speaker Clark ordered the address referred to the Interstate Commerce Committee.

Within 10 minutes after the President had addressed Congress, Senator Chilton Democrat, of the Canals Committee, introduced a bill authorizing the President to suspend tolls.

Chairman Adams who will have charge of the repel legislation, detailed the address listed his ideas exactly.

"The President's address pleases me," he said, "because it means honesty at home and justice abroad. It is not true that we are surrendering to Great Britain if we repeat the free tolls clause. Myself and other Democrats took a position against this piece of rascality before England ever heard of it."

Democratic leader Underwood declined to discuss the President's ad-

VILLA DEMANDS BIG RANSOM

Gen. Terrazas Asks United States to Rescue His Son Held for Ransom.

El Paso, Tex., March 5. General Luis Terrazas this afternoon appealed to Marlon Letcher, American consul at Chihuahua, now here, to save his son, Luis, whose life has been in danger for 15 days if $60,000 ransom money is not paid over to General Francisco Villa, the rebel leader.

Consul Letcher, declared himself deeply moved by the appeal of the regenerator head of the great Mexican family, whose wide possessions have been confiscated by the Constitutionalists, but he had to reply that he was helpless in the matter.

"I am nearly 80 years old and nearly life nor money mean much to me," said General Terrazas. "My son Luis has 13 children and they need him. I would gladly return to Chihuahua and Villa could kill me instead of my son."

While General Terrazas did not say as much the interview left the impression that he is not now in possession of the sum demanded, save the son is about 50 years old.

At the time of his arrest, the rebels demanded $650,000 gold as the price of his life. This sum was slow in being paid and Luis was taken out and a noose adjusted around his neck. Then he was gently hoisted from the floor. The torture was repeated until he signified that he would pay the sum demanded, all that he had in the Chihuahua bank.

After this incident he was removed from the palace where he had been confined and allowed to live under guard with his family in one of his father's houses.

If the chitlitos had Pancho Villa a prisoner in the same circumstances, do you think he would be restrained in a palace and considered with the consideration I have shown Don Luis?" Villa told women relatives of Terrazas who appealed to him.

"No; Pancho Villa's head would have been placed on a pike and paraded about the city. The Terrazas family has accumulated its great wealth through oppression of the people and now the people demand reparation. When General Terrazas left Consul Letcher's room today, he appeared much distressed.

A personal appeal to Secretary Bryan was suggested, but the old man shook his head. The appeal however, may be made unless it is impossible to raise the ransom money. The great bulk of the Terrazas fortune, normally estimated at $40,000 gold, was tied up by the confiscation orders and most of the money available in foreign countries has been spent in the last three years.

It was said tonight that the most serious obstacle in the way of settlement of the matter is Villa's refusal to allow Don Luis to leave Mexico after the money was paid.

Terrazas in reply to Villa said he would pay the money if his son was brought to the center of the international bridge, while the sum was changing hands.

This Villa flatly declined to do. General Terrazas regards any other arrangement as folly, as his son, he thinks would be used merely as a means of further extortion.

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Can Tell.

Brush It Through Hair

Gray hair however handsome denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your claim. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and ragged, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young!

Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy.

Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes, dandruff, stoops itching scalp, and falling hair; besides no one can possibly tell as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Down With the Leaders.

This paper has already called attention to the indication that the cry of non-employment is being overworked in the large cities, and subsequent developments show that the suspicion is well founded. Not alone that, but that also in some places the Industrial Workers of the World are directing the demonstrations against alleged unbearable conditions, which undoubtedly accounts for some of the lawlessness that has resulted.

In New York Wednesday night a body of men moved, against the warning of the police, into a Catholic church in which a Lenten service was in progress, creating an uproar and supplanting religious devotion with chaos. The priests tried to calm the invaders, but in vain, and they were placed under arrest by the police, who had feared the out-break, and locked up. The intrusion and turmoil broke up the church service, terrified the women present and resulted in one of the worst church disturbances ever known in the city.

And all this under the guise of suffering and desperation due to the lack of employment. But who believes that any honest workingman, except under the sway of evil leadership, would engage in any such demonstration because he was out of work? What possible benefit could accrue to unemployed men from thus entering a house of worship and so rudely and criminally interrupting the services?

There is no justification for anything of this sort, regardless of the condition of the labor market; and the leaders of this mob should be made to suffer severely. There may have been among the number men ignorant enough to have been convinced that such action was necessary to direct the attention of the public to their condition, but the real culprits were the leaders, who are not looking for work except along the lines of agitation and trouble making. Along those lines they are industrious enough to entitle them to the name they have chosen—Industrial Workers of the World.

There is sympathy everywhere with honest workingmen who are unable to find employment, but there is reason to believe that the number of these is far fewer than has been represented. Whether that be the case or not, the raiding of churches by mobs under any pretense whatsoever will not do in this country, and the sooner this lesson is pressed home to the turbulent elements that are seeking trouble instead of work the better it will be for all concerned:

Some of the society leaders in Washington have placed the ban on the colored wig, which is far more sensible than placing a colored wig on the head. Evidences of decadence in American life are not confined to the poor and ignorant, home or foreign born, and one of the most striking evidences is the colored wig fad.

Congress is hurrying the appropriations for the expenses of the government in order to clear the decks for the big business of the session, in the list of which are the anti-trust bills. The members also realize that they want to go home one of these days to look after their political fences.

The cost of removing snow from the streets of New York will reach $2,000,000, it is said, and it is thought the total expense throughout the eastern cities will be $10,000,000. There is nothing truer than that snow "makes business" when it comes in excessive quantity.

It is highly probable that, as a Washington correspondent writes, the constitutional amendment for prohibition will not be taken up at this session of Congress. There are thousands of total abstainers in the country who are not ready for that step.

The Boston Globe says President Wilson has not lost his temper once since he entered the White House. But it was discovered some time ago that the President is fonder of making precedents in the line of official explosions.

The Filipinos ask Congress to take action at this session looking toward the independence of the islands, but it is a vain request. Independence may come to the Philippines in time, but the time is not yet.

As the result of arbitration in their favor the employees of the Boston elevated railway have received back pay aggregating $400,000. And how lean their envelopes will seem on the next pay day.

There will be some unemployed men in Boston in the near future unless they get new jobs. Mayor Curley is to reduce the city force by about 500 men. Another opening for the I.W.W.

William Dean Howells, the famous novelist, is 77 years old. He has done much and valuable work for his fellow men, and congratulations come to him from all parts of the world.

Lots of weather, and in great variety.

NOBLE WORK BY ELEVATOR BOY

Saved Many Lives at the Quincy House Fire Last Night.

Boston, March 5.—The Quincy house, with 400 guests and banqueters within its walls, was thrown into confusion tonight by a fire which caused the death of one man and injury to several others.

W. R. Snow of Woodstock, N. Y., a guest, was suffocated while he slept. L. A. P. White of Londonderry, N. H., sustained cuts and bruises in making his escape.

A blind man, Fred Wheeler, had nearly overcome when John McKay, an elevator boy, found him wandering in a smoke-choked hallway.

Young McKay was the hero of the fire. After he had taken two loads of guests to safety in his elevator, a fire chief told him it would be dangerous to go up again. Sparks and burning timbers were dropping through the elevator well. But the boy, though there might be others upstairs and he sent the car three times after that to the top and rescued guests.

Four banquets were disrupted by the excitement, although the flames did no damage below the sixth floor, the top of the hotel. Smoke filled most of the house, however, and hallways ran with water which entered the rooms on all the floors.

The cause of the blaze is not known. One had its beginning in a sink room and spread through the rooms on the sixth floor and up through the roof. The total damage was about $50,000.

ANOTHER TASTE OF WINTER.

Shortly before noon today it began to snow and from appearances it looks as though we were to have another old fashioned snow storm. The winter of 1914 will undoubtedly be remembered for years to come.

MCDONALD WILL SPEAK

The New Hampshire road convention is fortunate in procuring for a speaker, James H. MacDonald, of New Haven, Conn. Mr. MacDonald was for six years president of the American Road Builders' Association which is the largest body of its kind in the United States and also State Highway Commissioner of Connecticut over 17 years. He is recognized in this country as the highest authority on drainage, having specialized in this branch of engineering. In view of this fact no better subject could have been selected by the committee than the one on which Mr. MacDonald is to speak, namely, "Drainage."

GREENLAND

Miss Elizabeth Loveling of Portsmouth, is visiting her sister Mrs. A. J. Norton.

George A. Norton, the postmaster, is gaining slowly. He has been able to do light work about the premises of late.

Miss Annie A. Philbrook who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Fred Hart for several weeks in Taunton, Mass., is expecting to return next week.

George H. Huntress has now secured the convenience of rural mail delivery, which he should have received when it was first installed.

NO SCHOOLS TODAY.

No session of the public schools was held today, owing to the teachers being given an opportunity to attend the teachers institute at Epping.

Seventeen soldiers of the Austrian Emperor's Rifle Regiment were overwhelmed and killed today by an avalanche while they were engaged in maneuvers on the Ortler Mountain in the Tyrol.

POINT TO NEED OF HIGH SCHOOLS

Public Instruction Department Says Towns Are Negligent.

The department of public instruction of the state government has issued a circular calling attention to the need of better high school facilities in some of the towns. The department after reciting the moral and educational abuses which have grown up under the workings of the high school law of 13 years ago, makes the following statements:

The solution of the problem thus created is obviously the establishment of new high schools in towns large enough to support them. In general the figures show that town having an average membership of 100 in its elementary schools would come at the end of four years to show a membership of 25 in a high school and in many cases this enrollment would be exceeded. A small high school of this type is capable of doing some very useful and very wholesome work. The following list of towns which would naturally come within this class is given with the present membership in the lower schools.

Allstead 114, Amherst 135, Barnstead 123, Bartlett 187, Bedford 153, Belmont 186, Bristol 203, Campton 106, Canaan 217, Chester 106, Chesterfield 320, Conway 480, Cornish 142, Derryfield 122, Durham 165, Ellington 106, Fitzwilliam 183, Gilmanton 164, Hinsdale 104, Hooksett 144, Hudson 193, Londonderry 154, Lyne 156, Milford 166, Moultonborough 107, Newton 116, Oxford 114, Ossipee 181, Pelham 150, Pittsburgh 103, Plainfield 138, Raymond 169, Rollinsford 264, Rumney 183, Rye 112, Salem 253, Sanbornton 107, Sandwich 127, Seabrook 148, Stewartstown 164, Sunapee 177, Swanzey 216, Tamworth 153, Troy 227, Wakefield 297, Weare 194, and Woodstock 162.

A few of the above list of towns are probably better cared for by institutions in adjacent towns than they could be by a school in their town. A great majority of these towns however, could maintain high schools of their own with results which in the long run would greatly accumulate to the benefit and the upbuilding of the community.

In many of these towns there were at one time flourishing academies.

Some of them already have one or two year high schools to four years.

The full four year high school is what we are talking about.

It should be especially noted that several of the most flourishing of our existing high schools have an enrollment in the lower schools very less than the average in the towns above listed.

Finally it should be noted that there has long been provision of law by which two or more of these town school districts can unite in the establishment of a joint high school. For instance, towns situated as are Sandwich, Tamworth and Moultonborough could unite in the establishment of a joint high school which would probably from the outset be a flourishing institution of good size.

All such schools of course should be designed especially for the conservation and uplift of rural life. That is to say they should be modeled on the lines of Colebrook Academy and of the new Charlestown high school.

Chestnut for Poles.

A writer in the Electrical Times recently stated that probably the best wood for poles is cedar, but chestnut also makes excellent, durable poles. Much depends, however, on the nature of the soil, and, generally speaking, native timber will be more durable than poles of otherwise equal quality grown under different conditions of soil and climate.

Wonderful "Water Vine."

One of the wonders of the Guatemala jungle is the "water vine," a black, snake-like, leafless stem, dropping from the ceiba and mahogany trees to which it has climbed. It is said to contain a quart of water to every foot. When the stem is cut the water spurts forth in a refreshing stream. Moisture is drawn up from the soil, and filtered through the pores of the plant.

WORTH KNOWING.

Rontgen rays are produced under suitable conditions by electric discharge in vacuum tubes. They pass through wood, flesh, paper, and other optically opaque substances; but are absorbed by such substances as metal, bone and glass; for which reason when a limb of an animal body is interposed it will cast upon a screen a shadow in which the dark, bony central structure can be clearly distinguished. These shadow pictures also show the presence of foreign metallic substances, such as bullets, needles, etc., in the body, and are of immense service in surgery.

CURRENT OPINION

Some of Our Railroads Are Becoming Thin and Emaciated.

As a general proposition, the railroads of this country are physically strong. It has been stated they carry high class freight at the rate of one ton three miles for the value of a two cent postage stamp; that they carry one ton of dead freight four miles for one cent. Not all of them are making money at these rates. Some of them are getting thin and emaciated.

There is criticism afoot that the railroads have not used their money judiciously. It is hard to indet the whole country or industry representative thereof. The efficiency and integrity of these railroads must be judged by facts palpable to all—the strength in heavy steel rails, good ballast, steel cars, modern signal systems and other appurtenances that constitute a safe transportation machine whose efficiency is proved by paying the highest wages for services rendered by its employees and furnishing transportation at the lowest cost.

This is a simple problem. Those who confuse it and complicate it serve only to hide the truth. In establishing the commissions the people have provided a means of searching out the facts and truth of the matter in order that they, the people, may do justice and right. The railroads have hope and confidence in these bodies in this work. By their efforts perpetuate and enhance the confidence of the people in these great properties, to the end that they may grow and be more and more serviceable to the nation and its people.—Alfred L. Smith, President of the New York Central Railroad.

FRANK DALEY HELD ON INCENDIARY CHARGE

Chicago, March 5—William Cheney Ellis was today found guilty of murdering his wife, Mrs. Eleanor Hosie Ellis, last October, in a Chicago hotel. Punishment was fixed at imprisonment in the state penitentiary for 15 years.

The jury reached a decision after deliberating three and one-half hours.

The defense of psychic epilepsy or transitory insanity, set up by Ellis, was disregarded by the jurors. Ellis claimed that he had been driven to murder by the knowledge that his wife was lost to him and had given her love to Fred G. Canfield of Bradford, Ont., a young dry goods merchant.

Ellis killed his wife in their hotel room on October 16, 1913. He is 47 years old and has been a dealer in leather goods in Cincinnati. He followed his wife here several days after she came to Chicago on a visit to relatives. They celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary with a dinner and theatre party on the night of the murder.

REBELS' COMMISSION MAKING INVESTIGATION ON BENTON'S DEATH

JUAREZ, March 5.—Investigation into the execution by General Villa of William S. Benton, the British subject and into the disappearance of Gustave Baugh, the German-American, was begun here today by the Mexican commission appointed by General Carranza, chief of the Constitutionalists. Seventy men, heads of departments, clerks and secretaries brought with them a load of official papers of the rebel government.

All possible haste in reporting will be required of the commission. This was announced from General Carranza's headquarters when assurances were given that the commissioners intended last night had been instructed to report confidentially to General Carranza the exact result of their findings, regardless of political or personal feeling.

The commission will review the findings of the alleged court martial independently of the Anglo-American commission, the work of which has been retarded by diplomatic difficulties. The new commission is composed of General Ramon Prado, president, Dr. Miguel Silva and Miguel Lara. They expect to ascertain according to their instructions whether the arrest and conviction of Benton were according to due form of law and justice. Unless some flaw in the proceedings is discovered they are not expected to exonerate the Briton's body. The Anglo-American commission meanwhile is inactive, waiting instructions from Washington.

Appointment of the commission reflected it was made known today, from some difference of opinion among General Carranza's advisers. While it was asserted those surrounding the Constitutional commander-in-chief realized his delicate position as a result of the Benton death, they needed to handle the situation." He said he believed Huerta might be willing to step down if such a strong man is found.

Asked about the British Government's attitude toward Villa as the result of Benton's death, he said:

"What can you do with a man like Villa? He has 8000 men behind him and is powerful in his section of the country. What can you do?"

NEW COLLIER TO ROUND SOUTH AMERICA

The collier Jupiter, which recently made a successful trial trip, will be the first ship in the navy propelled with electrically driven machinery to make an extended cruise. Telegraphic orders received at Valdés, Col., instruct the Jupiter to proceed to the Atlantic coast and join the Atlantic battle fleet, with Norfolk as the home yard. Minor alterations requiring forty-five days to complete will then be made. The Jupiter will then proceed through the Straits of Magellan.

DID CHILD WAKE UP CROSS OR FEVERISH?

Would Mean Loss of Thousands of Lives, Declares Carden.

New York, March 5.—"Intervention in Mexico would be a dreadfully serious move," said Sir Lionel Carden, British ambassador to Mexico, as he sailed from New York for London yesterday on the White Star liner Olympic. "It would mean the loss of thousands of lives. I hope it will not be necessary."

Sir Lionel Carden said he would return to London to make a personal report to Sir Edward Grey on Mexican conditions; that he would then return to Mexico City, and later would be transferred to Brazil. He declared his report of such importance that he preferred to make it in person. Carden denied ever having felt or expressed hostility to the United States or the American policy in Mexico, but intimated strongly he believed Urrutia was the only man in that country strong enough to bring peace there.

"Your people here are not getting the real facts about outrages committed in Mexico," he said. "Conditions there are terrible and a strong man is

FRENCH WOMEN WORK

Women of Paris Are Not All Types for Fashion Plates—In Fact, Many Are Like the Busy Apoidea,

"One of the things that impressed me most during a month just spent in Paris," said a New York woman, "was the ceaseless industry of the French working women. Not only was every minute occupied, but usually these tireless workers seemed to be getting double return from their time.

The young woman who came for our washing appeared at our apartment door, knitting in hand. She carried the clothes home on her back, knitting as she walked along. Our little maid of all work kept her crocheting in the kitchen, and while the events were cooking on the funny little gas stove she crocheted as though her life depended upon it, and so far as I could see neither the cooking nor the lace work suffered because of her divided attention.

"When the doublets rang she walked down the little hall, still crocheting. I surreptitiously put a mark in her lace work just to see what progress she made during her two busiest days, and it was astonishing to find how much she'd accomplished, in spite of almost constant interruption. Then down at the market in the Rue du Faubourg St. Honoré I shall never forget my surprise at watching the market women knitting and crocheting as they tended their stalls. When a purchase was made the hand-work was stopped barely long enough to deliver the goods and the change.

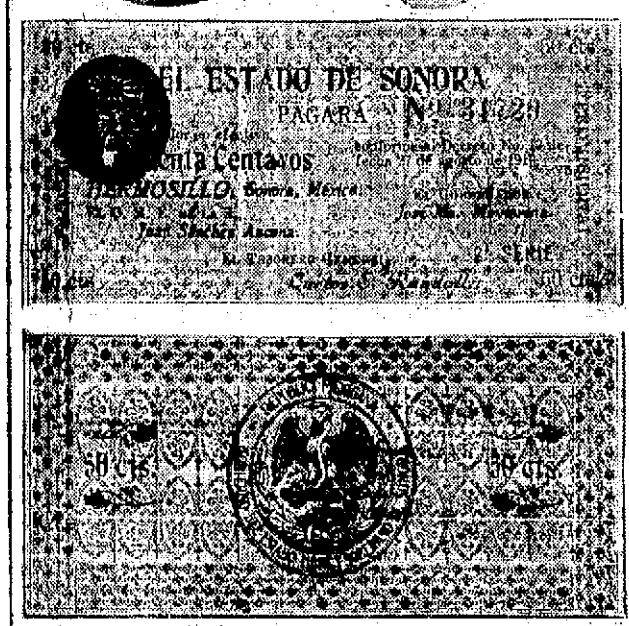

"The French women whose lives are spent on the great barges on the Seine seem to know the art of doing several things at once. I remember standing on one of the bridges watching a young mother at the stern of a big barge balancing herself as she nursed her baby and steered the boat under the arched bridge. An elderly woman, evidently the grandmother, was getting the dinner ready, knitting in hand, while she looked now and then at the work of two little girls whom she was teaching to embroider. At the time the three men of the family were sitting by complacently smoking and chatting.

"I soon discovered that this air of frenzied industry was contagious. I found myself tucking a little book or French verbs into my handbag for study on the bus, and a little work bag made its way into our living room so that the time given to a change earlier might be put to good use, in true French fashion."—New York Sun

Villa Forces Americans In North of Mexico to Use New Rebel Currency

Photos by American Press Association.

General Pancho Villa is enforcing the use of new Mexican money in the north of Mexico. This currency was recently issued by authority of the Constitutionalists, of which Carranza is the head and Villa is the chief commanding officer. Americans in the north of Mexico are being forced to recognize this money and use it solely. Villa's latest picture is here shown with facsimiles of a coin and a fifty cent note issued in the state of Sonora.

WOULD AID WIDOWED MOTHERS

New York Commission Recommends State Aid and Will Urge a Law to Cover Situation.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, March 5.—A state of siege was proclaimed in Rio Janeiro, Brazil, today, according to despatches reaching here from that city.

It is understood here that a strict censorship has been imposed on despatches from Brazil. Reports have been current for some time that a revolutionary movement was in existence in the Brazilian states of Paraná, Ceará, and Pernambuco, and that fighting was in progress between the local forces and the Government authorities.

The causes of the disaffection were said to have been racial differences. In the last week of February a body of fanatics was reported to be marching on Rio Janeiro, and the situation in the various states was reported as becoming worse, more especially in Ceará. Business was said to be virtually suspended in several states, chiefly those where the Negro population was very numerous.

The commission expects to make the report to the Legislature on March 16. From the city of New York there are more than five thousand children of widowed mothers, who were committed for poverty alone and for the care of each the city pays between $2.50 and $3 a week.

The commission will recommend a law providing for separate boards in each county or city to take charge of the situation.

CASTOR OIL IS TASTELESS NOW

A Remarkable Step Forward in Oil Refining

Pure, clear, castor oil without taste or smell, is a recent discovery of the house of Spencer Kellogg & Sons, refiners of vegetable oils.

The Kellogg Mills take away the nauseating taste but remove none of the good properties of castor oil.

As Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is merely a purified castor oil it works better than the evil-tasting, evil-smelling dose of the past, and does not upset the stomach. Children take it easily.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil has been supplied to all druggists not in bulk but in neat 25c and 50c bottles. It is necessary to ask for Kellogg's by name to distinguish it from disguised castor oils, flavored with peppermint and other strong essences. The trademarked label bears a green castor leaf, with the signature Kellogg's.

Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons Inc., Buffalo, N. Y. oil refiners. For sale by C. W. Bass, Boardman & Norton, F. B. Coleman, Wm. D. Grace, Benj. Green, G. E. Philbrick, C. B. Tilton & Company, R. E. Clark, Kittery.

LOBSTERMEN REPORT BIG LOSSES OWING TO THE WEATHER

Portland, March 5.—Fresh water and the extreme cold temperature of the salt water in the harbor, caused by the recent gales and rain storms have destroyed from $10,000 to $12,000 worth of lobsters along the waterfront. This discovery was made yesterday afternoon, when the lobstermen visited their ears and found many of the crustaceans dead and others dying.

Several of the dealers immediately ordered transports and had the cars towed out into the harbor where the water was clean and not so cold, but in the docks and it was undoubtedly this act that saved the loss from being much larger.

Around 800 of the lobsters were killed during the past few days and the dealers are congratulating themselves that their entire stock was not equally. The ice has been formed in the docks around the harbor now for several days and the temperature of the water has been lower than it has for some time.

This, coupled with the severe weather experienced recently which turned up the mud in the harbor and sent fresh water into the ears, was the cause of the slaughter. All day yesterday men were at work removing their lobsters and sorting out the dead and live ones.

Coming as it does with lobsters so scarce, the happening will not tend to lower the price of lobsters any and it will take a long time before the lobsters which were killed will be replaced as the fishermen are reporting an unusual scarcity in this kind of fish.

ART MUSEUM DEFIES THIEVES

Secret Network of Alarms Protects Treasures Worth $100,000,000

New York, March 5.—The authorities of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, now that the $100,000,000 Morgan collection is added to their burden of responsibility have traps, snare and pitfalls so perfect that even master thieves are not feared. If a cunning thief were able to penetrate at night to the galleries where the riches of the museum are stored, alarm bells would ring, not only in the patrol boxes of the museum, summoning fifty armed men, who would shoot before delaying to question, but in police headquarters and fire headquarters, so that the thief would find every gallery thronged with watchmen and detectives every door barred and sentinelled, every possible means of escape cut off.

So perfect are the precautionary measures that the interior of the museum is guarded by an invisible network of signal wires, every wire sensitive to the touch of foot or hand, ready to betray the most skillful intruder. By day, although the precautions are not so elaborate, they are sufficient to guard against theft. The watchmen carry clubs. The doormen are armed with revolvers. Detectives in plain clothes, pretending to be visitors, stroll through the galleries, keeping an eye upon suspicious persons. Not even the employees of the museum know the identity of these detectives. If a thief should be caught, or

SUBMARINES ON A LONG VOYAGE

Washington, March 5.—When Jules Verne wrote "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" few of his readers imagined that his weird scenes would be accomplished within their lifetime, yet at the end of last month two submarines started from Portsmouth, England, for Australia, a distance of 13,000 miles, which they will accomplish under their own power, created by oil-driven engines. They are scheduled to reach Australia about May 18, which allows for no loss of time from start to finish. Each boat has oil-engines of 1,000 horsepower, calculated to develop 300 revolutions per minute, and will carry 15,000 gallons of paraffin as fuel and 1,500 gallons of lubricating oil. They have as armaments four torpedo tubes and on arrival will be fitted with wireless telegraphy. They are to be known as AEI and AE 2, being of the E class.

They will be escorted as far as Singapore by his Majesty's ship, Eclipse, and from that port by his Majesty's ship Australia, of the commonwealth navy. The crews are mainly Australians who have been sent over here for instruction, and they are naturally very keen on making a successful journey with the accompanying crew. Apparently they do not consider the voyage contains any hazard out of the ordinary run, but none expect much enjoyment during the passage, as space below is very limited, and the only "deck" is a platform eighteen inches wide and about sixty feet long. Here they can only sit or stand 'n single file, and during dirty weather or heavy seas this plank walk is of little use. The first stage is from Portsmouth to Gibraltar, for which four days is allowed. Three days may be spent at "The Rock." Thence they go to Malta, another four days' run, with three days there to refit. Aden will be the next port of call, and then Colombo. At Singapore they stop to overhaul and refill, and continue their journey to Australia via Batavia and the East India route, in order to keep within a reasonable distance of land as far as possible before their final run to their destination.
